FRED MEADOWS WON MARATHON

The Fleet Guelph Runner Defeats a
Classy Field at Madison Square Garden—Record Time—Ljung-strom, of Sweden, was Second

New York, Feb. 15.—Fred Meadows of Toronto won last night in one of the greatest indoor 15-mile professional running races ever seen in this country. His time, 1:21:24 1-3, is the fastest time ever made in Madison Square Garden, but is 9 1-5 seconds behind his own world's record made last week at Toronto. He was never pressed. Meadows thus established himself undisputed champion of the world at his own distance. Ljungstrom of Sweden, who pressed him hard at Toronto, finished second again, but never was in the running with Meadows, who took lead at jump. Acosta, the Indian, finished a poor fifth two laps behind Jim Crowley of New York, fourth, who in turn finished 2 1-2 laps behind Sellen third. Meadows was two laps safe at the finish or his time might have been faster. Sellen was one lap behind Ljungstrom.

Now, if Jim Jeffries doesn't shoot himself in the foot while he is hunting in the mountains above Los Angeles, and it is no cinch that he won't, and if Jack Johnson keeps out of jail—and there is no insurance on that—and if a cataclysm doesn't eventuate in California, and you can't tell anything about that, either, there will be a fight for the championship of the world next summer.

Tosfield and Wainwright play this week for the Halstead medals. This is emblematic of the North-Eastern hockey championship.

Bill Dahlen, the Brooklyn manager, was asked why he was christened "Bad" Bill. "They called me 'Bad Bill' in Chicago because I was so quiet," answered Dahlen. "It's just for the same reason that they call a man 'Doc' because he isn't, I guess."

One of the big mite owners of Haileybury has made a present of a complete outfit of coat awesaters to the senior Haileybury seven. Nothing appears wanting in Haileybury except a winning hockey team, according to the above.

Fred Clarke has sold Honus for $190. Honus, it might as well be understood, is not the mighty shortstop of the Pirate team, but a well-proportioned mule named in honor of the great Wagner. Clarke had a fine day for the sale of stock and implements of the "Little Pirate" ranch.

Nowadays the baseball season begins in March and ends in February. Here's a sample: March, players start for the South; April, players return from training camp, season opens; May, weaker teams still in the race; June, stragglers begin to drop to rear; July, hot weather gives veterans chance to show; August, last doubtful youngsters cashes in; September, class begins to sell; October, pennant won and world's series is played; November, world's series re-fought; December, trade talk begins; January, one lone trade of season is made; February, season is officially closed—Exchange.

Paul Acosta's Indian friends on the Grenfell reservation and the Saulteaux runner himself will never believe that he has beaten a good mule until Longboat is defeated. Acosta's chief aim in life at present is to beat the Onondaga.

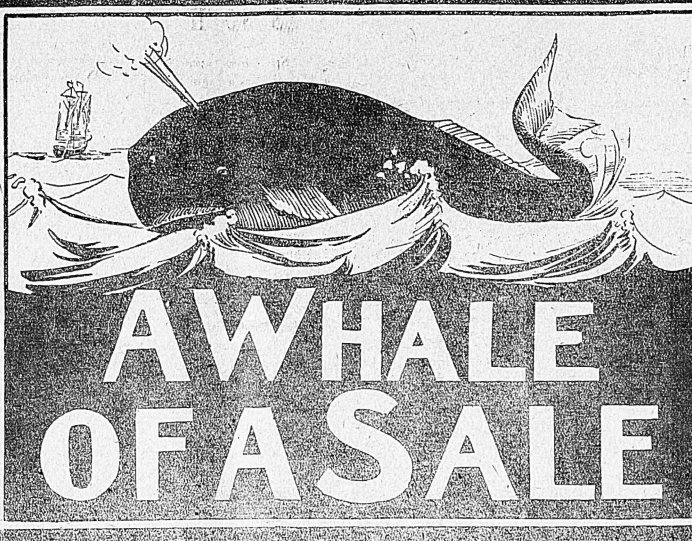

Montreal, Feb. 15.—Ed. Barrow, manager of the Montreal Club, announced this evening that he had purchased Nattress, the well-known shortstop, from Buffalo. Nattress will put in the season as utility man with Montreal.

Johnny Billeter, of Toledo, has been matched to wrestle Eugene Tremblay, of Montreal, at 135 pounds, at Cleveland on Monday night, Feb. 21st. This pair of wrestlers met at the same place a year ago, and the bout went four hours and fifteen minutes without either man gaining a fall, the world's record for such a performance. Tremblay is matched now to wrestle Max Luttlig at Chicago Feb. 14th.

THE CAPITAL'S CONTEST

Get in the Race and go After the Prizes While the Contest is Young—No One has Much of a Start

A few more active candidates have joined the workers since last Saturday. So far a very representative number of candidates have entered in each district, and activity is shown in each list. There are four splendid prizes in Districts 1, 2 and 4 and three prizes in District 3, and all the candidates have an equal chance to win the grand prizes. Winning depends more upon the amount of attention paid to a campaign than the locality or districts from which the candidate comes.

If you are going to be a candidate, be one. Don't be ashamed of it. Don't go on record as being in the receptive class. Strong characters, the successful men and women of this age, are not tucking themselves away in some dark corner awaiting the arrival of some Columbus to discover their talents. Active, concentrated energy is the fabric of which success is woven in this bustling, turbulent old world. Votes are easy to get. Go after them. They will not come to candidates in waiting numbers unsought. Call at the Contest Department, Room 5, Norwood Building (get several, if you have friends who will work for you) and get your share of the votes.

Big Ballot Thursday.

Thursday's coupons will be worth to voters instead of 5. No extra prizes will be printed for sale. Get these "Big Voters" from regular subscribers.

THE SALE OF THE CAMPBELL FURNITURE CO. PLANNED ON THE BROADEST POSSIBLE LINES

Determination "to do" has won many victories and accomplished wonderful results. It is just this spirit exactly that is behind the Campbell Furniture Co. Sale which opens next Thursday morning with every article of merchandise in the $100,000 stock reduced in price, below the regular value. Judging from the circulars distributed the sale is not going to be wanting in publicity, but it is just this kind of a sale planned on broad lines that will bring people to Edmonton from all over the province and make the city known as a trading centre with stocks worthy of the place. The store will be closed on Wednesday preparatory for the sale and for 15 days the people are going to have the very best bargains in furniture and carpets.

Marshall, whose very highly we appreciate the splendid and efficient service which he has rendered to the cause of the Master during his pastorate of this church for the past four years. His pulpit efforts have been an inspiration to us, leading us up to a higher and better life. He has tendered his sympathy to us in our homes when the shadows have crossed our thresholds, while he has also mingled his joys with ours in the brighter days of our journey along the pathway of life. But it is in his efforts in connection with the Manhood League that we feel that he possibly over him the greatest debt of gratitude and what he has done for us in this regard will ever remain as a monument to the devotion of his brain and heart. That he owes no small measure of his success to his clever and faithful wife we all will readily be prepared to admit. May they both long be spared to proclaim the truth as it is in Jesus and sometime we trust they may take a glance backward to the days of their sojourn in Ingersoll and think of the friends who will always think of them."

The late Mr. Marshall was 44 years of age and is survived by Mrs. Marshall and two sons named Everett and Norman. His death is a sad blow to the aged assistant pastor and Mrs. Hunter. The funeral will probably be held on Thursday at one o'clock, from where the body will be taken to the C.P.R. Station for transference to the East.

OPPOSITION

Reply to Speech from Throne moved in eloquent terms in Legislature

DEBATE IS SIDE-TRACKED

Addresses Refer to Prosperity of Province and Future Possibilities—Bennett Asks Questions

"My friend," you shall hear from me soon enough," was R. B. Bennett's reply to the numerous inquiries yesterday as to why he did not contribute to the debate on the speech from the throne.

The silence of the junior member for Calgary at a moment when all eyes were turned on him in breathless suspense was eloquent. Geo. P. Smith, member for Canmore, had moved a scholarly reply to the Lieutenant-Governor's address. He was followed by Mr. Roberts, the member for High River, who made a very favorable impression on the House. Then all turned to the leader of the opposition. Mr. Bennett was reading a legal volume and had only begun an unusually long paragraph when the speaker of the reply had concluded. Mr. Bennett read on with absorbing interest regardless of a chum-drum from Mr. Hood by his left. When he finally closed the book the resolution before the House was being put by the speaker, and directly after the "humane address" of the legislative assembly was ordered to be fully presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

The debate on the reply was forth with closed.

Mr. Boyle, Sturgeon, moved that all papers in connection with the contract with the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway be laid on the table.

"I think," said Mr. Bennett, "that it is the duty of the government to place all papers requested on the floor, or on the table of the House—probably the floor would be the best place for them—without requiring a formal motion."

Mr. Bennett gave notice of the following question: he will ask the government on Thursday:

1. From whom did the government purchase the site for the university?
2. What was the date of the purchase?
3. What was the purchase price?
4. How was it paid, in check or in cash?
5. How was the price delivered to the vendor, by mail, express or by an individual?
6. If by an individual, by whom?
7. Who conducted the negotiations for the purchase of the said site?

Moving of Reply.

Geo. P. Smith, in moving the reply to the speech from the throne, made a pleasing reference to the regime of the first representatives of royalty in this province and to the legislature which has been called together for the first time since the record and policy of the government were submitted to the approval of the electors.

Mr. Smith went on to make a comparison of the yields of wheat obtained in the three western provinces during the past 11 years, showing that Alberta leads Saskatchewan by two and one-half bushels per acre, and Manitoba by three and three-quarter bushels. Not only was the yield higher but the quality was equally good, he said. He went on to speak of the climate, saying: "And while the fertility of our soil is most wonderful our climate may to an even greater extent stimulate our pride. The influence of the chinook winds is at work all the time in moderating the climate. When we reach the northern part of Alberta, too, another element enters into conditions. The altitude which at Calgary is 3,289 feet gradually becomes less and less, until at Ft. Vermilion it is only 900 feet. Professor Lindell, of Montana, has stated that other things being equal, 1,000 feet in altitude is equal to 300 miles in latitude. Might it be permitted to draw the attention of my honorable friend, the junior member for Calgary, to the fact that this places Calgary about 150 miles north of Edmonton. (Laughter and heart from R. B. Bennett). But, seriously, conditions have been as ideally arranged as may be; the lines have fallen upon us in pleasant places, and those of us who have visited the east recently will agree that we claim not without reason the appellation "Sunny Alberta."

The speaker mentioned that as the source of loss which the farmers had to face year by year. In looking over some figures furnished by the treasury department he found that the deficit arising from hall insurance operations during the past four years has been approximately as follows: 1906, $3,000; 1907, $11,000; 1908, $17,000; 1909, $73,000. These figures indicated clearly that the province must either give up the hall insurance business or find some new system for its management. Personally he regarded this matter as one that very properly came under the operations of the state.

"The speech of His Honor," said Mr. Smith, "makes reference in one paragraph to the great increase in the flow of settlers into Alberta, and to the policy of railway expansion, which is among the first considerations of the government. It is appropriate that these two matters should be mentioned side by side. They are the very arteries that make life possible to the province, and we hope that the government, realizing this as they do, will not relax their efforts until all the settlers who are contributing of their brain and muscle to the upbuilding of our province have reaped every advantage accruing from the policy, and until, as occasion demands, the unexplored portions of the province are brought within the reach of settlement."

Mr. Roberts Speaks.

In seconding the motion L. M. Roberts made an early reference to education in Alberta.

The credit should be given the hon. minister of education for the efficient manner in which the affairs of his department have been conducted, on assuming the control of government first of September, 1905, we find that there were 502 public schools within the province, at the present date there are no less than 1,280, an increase of 718 in the number of public schools erected under the Rutherford government. It is needless to say that these schools are all working for the betterment of our entire population, and through their influence the assimilation of the alien immigrant is surely and rapidly taking place, and even the most casual visitor is struck with the splendid school buildings which are to be found in every city, town, village and community within the province. We are informed that it is the intention of the government to bring forward legislation respecting the present university act, and this should receive the most careful and thoughtful attention of the members of this assembly.

"What we need is a system to develop individualism and bring out the dormant powers and energy of our boys and girls. This is a most practical age, and there is greater need for more technical education in order that the latent resources of our province may be developed, with her products placed in competition with the other nations throughout the world.

"Coming as I do from the republic to the south," said the speaker, "I am especially pleased to see so many of my fellow-countrymen making their way towards Alberta. They are bringing with them the skill and knowledge which they have acquired in pursuit of agriculture in their own country and energy and means of their own which will contribute to the development of the resources of this province."

In speaking of the absence of any notable disaster to our province during the past year, the hon. member has made the exception of visitation by hail to certain portions of our agricultural districts, and I most heartily endorse these sentiments which he has expressed with reference to that subject. Reference has been made to the introduction of legislation affecting the securing of a fair share in their deceased husband's estate to married women. Being the fortunate possessor of a wife and family I hardly feel it incumbent upon me to oppose this measure, but for the benefit of those women who are interested in this legislation I beg leave to offer the suggestion that they call upon the hon. the junior member from Calgary. In conclusion I have only to add that it is my hope that the present government will continue to carry into effect the policy of railway expansion already adopted by aiding the construction of new lines of railway into those districts which require development and by giving larger transportation facilities to the more thickly populated and older settled portions of the province, in order that the farmers who have already located upon their lands may be provided with the needed railway facilities which their crops to the markets of the world.

THE NEW THINGS ARE COMING EARLY THIS YEAR

All day long yesterday the men in the receiving rooms were busy opening boxes and getting merchandise distributed among their right homes.

Wagons were busy hauling in the cases from the railroad depots.

It was the first sign of the awakening of spring—a reminder that Easter comes in March this year, and people are going to get ready unusually early.

New things shown in various sections of the store today.

The New Cotton Dress Stuffs

Have been holding a reception to the Ladies of Edmonton during the past few days. Hundreds of yards have been sold, and everybody who has seen the new fabrics has spoken in their favor. We are quite sure we never showed nicer things. The weaves, widths, designs and colors are all winsome in the extreme, and being washable, as these are, they'll turn out to be the most economical fabrics we've ever displayed. Just now is a good time to make selections—while the assortment of patterns and colorings is complete; and with the fashions for spring decided upon, you can commence on the making of your new dresses and blouses to be in readiness for the warmer days as they spring themselves upon us.

Materials direct from the English market, including Serpentine Crepes, Crepons, Chambrays, Zephyrs, Galatens and Rawson Linen Suitings. Serpentine Crepes in fancy stripes, a beautiful material for Summer dresses, in mauve, sky, pearl and reseda, 32 in. wide 40c & 50c yd. Plain Crepons for waists and dresses. This is a very pretty material, shown in mauve, taupe, rose, sky and Gendrine, 27 in. wide 20c yd. White Crepons in plain and fancy stripes, beautiful qualities. Ranging from 35c to 50c yd.

Fine French Chambrays in a good range of shades, 32 in. wide. A cloth worth 25c for 20c yd. Fine Scotch Zephyrs in checks and stripes, all colors, 32 inches wide. A regular 25c quality for 20c yd.

1200 yards of Gingham and Chambrays—a splendid 15c quality. English Galatens in stripes and plain colors. A material that is sun and tub proof, a very special quality for 20c yd. 40 pieces of new Prints in good staple patterns. A superior cloth at a popular price, full width 12 1/2c yd.

POULTRY

POULTRY POINTERS

The Medicine Hat Poultry show is Feb. 15 and 16.

Geese are like cattle and graze, therefore they will need green stuff in winter as well as in summer.

Goose mothers need some watching to see that they will not crush their young.

Green feed for geese can be supplied in winter by sprouting oats. Place these oats in shallow boxes and then pour warm water over them, keep them in a warm place and keep them damp for a few days and they will soon furnish green feed.

Too much hard grain given with-out any vegetable food is said to produce sickness and vertigo.

The mature trout geese is said to be a very valuable fertilizer.

Goslings, like ducks, should have water to drink when they are eating.

Ganders not above five to eight years old, mated to old geese, give the best results.

Young geese do not lay as many eggs or produce as many goslings the first year as they do the second.

Geese weighing from 15 to 20 lbs. per pair are usually in the greatest demand and should weigh that weight at to 10 to 11 weeks of age.

In June it takes about fourteen days to fatten geese for market. In the fall, when it is cool, they will eat better and get fat much quicker.

Prof. Cushman says that whether the goose eggs are set under hens or turkeys, they should be sprinkled during the incubating period, generally this is done twice a week after the fifth day, and more freely just before the twenty-eighth day, when they commence to hatch.

It is necessary to be very gentle with geese, and vary each time to have confidence in their keeper. A nervous, excitable, rough person is a failure in goose culture.

Wet, marshy land is the best territory for geese, so low land and damp spots can be utilized for goose raising.

TURKEYS

Turkeys should be kept as tame as possible.

Range makes hardy turkeys. Provide an open roosting shed; confinement causes loss of flesh.

It is not profitable to breed from excessive weights.

Thunder storms, lice and dampness are foes to turkey culture.

Medium-sized, plump turkeys are all ways marketable, providing they are young, not over-fat, not too large.

"I have always thought that the delicacy of young turkeys is due in a measure to the rapidity with which feathers are grown," says L. V. Hoxley. "Young chickens require a few days for several weeks until its body is well grown, but a young turkey begins at once to put out large feathers on its wings and tail. This enormous feather growth saps the vitality of the body and leaves it an easy prey to weakness and disease."

Selecting our Breeders.

In regard to white fowls a writer in the Reliable Poultry Journal says: "I wish to select white birds, especially white Plymouth Rocks and white Wyandottes, the whiter the specimens are in their normal condition, the more apt they are to have what is called 'sea-sand spots'—a color akin to sea-sand. It is in no way injures the general appearance of the specimen and is a pretty sure indication that the specimen will breed white progeny, but when the Standard describes the color as 'pure white' these minute flecks must be cut leniently as defects. We cannot see how it would be an injury to the specimen or the breeder if such feathers be removed when found in the breast, back, body and neck plumage. From the wing or tail proper, they cannot be removed without the fact being disclosed. The present rule is to cut one half point for every missing feather and this is sufficient protection and covers all that they would have been cut if the feathers had been tainted by this 'sea-sand color.' To demand that this sea-sand color be considered a disqualification would be a most unjust thing and would not protect the breeder or breeder. The Standard should protect first-class specimens and first-class merit."

There is a point where the effort to satisfy the demand for immaculate white plumage produces birds that are defective in having poor colored beaks and legs. Such birds do not lay as many eggs as does the specimen whose whiteness of plumage is akin to that of the average milk when warm from an Ayrshire cow, but the color might be expressed as "a thick white." Shall judges demand an exacting or blue-white, or shall we consider that a reasonable and healthy white color of plumage, which is not blue-white, as also satisfying the demands of the Standard? To remove such feathers as universally appear in the plumage, such as these flecked feathers should not be called faking. If absolutely black feathers in a white breed were removed, that might be called faking. We believe that using chemicals to bleach out the creamy white plumaged birds should be considered faking. To use chemicals injures the texture of the feathers, and injures the force of transmission of its nature and its natural functions.

Every Brahma breeder in the land knows that a bluish-gray underfeather always breeds a whiter surface color and a plumage that resists the effects of the sun during the spring and summer.

The sea-sand flecks in white birds is akin to this dark undercolor in Brahmas. If it should be made a disqualification, according to the wish of some, the value of all white breeds would be reduced and the breeder would be injured to such an extent that the Standard would be ignored by them or they would give up the white breeds altogether.

Many breeders will say that a white surface such as is demanded in the white plumage of the Columbian Wyandotte, cannot be produced unless the undercolor is bluish-gray or slate color, yet their Standard describes the back as white and makes a single solid black feather there a disqualification; then they omit the balance of the Brahma disqualification, namely, "Positive black spots prevalent in white feathers of back." All this is decidedly a mistake. Two-thirds of the entire surface of the plumage of the back of the third prize pullet at Madison Square was black and white, the feather trim tipped with white, yet she could not be disqualified because there was not a solid black feather. When this variety of Wyandotte took the plumage of the Light Brahma it should have been governed by the Brahma disqualifications. To disqualify a bird of a breed that has black and white feathers for a single black feather in sections described as white is a mistake for the section may be more than half black and yet the bird is only cut for a defect when it should be disqualified.

We all know that black feathers are found in the plumage of Barred Plymouth Rocks, probably in ninety five per cent of those raised. We know we shall find them unless they have been removed. To remove them, to clean the bird for exhibition is legitimate, because the regulation cut for missing feathers in wing and tail is protection enough to ensure fair competition. It should not be a disqualification to remove these feathers, they will not affect the bird though in a literal sense it is faking, or it is altering the normal so that it may receive an advantage in competition, yet every breeder of Rocks would use such a specimen that is strictly first-class otherwise, in his breeding yards. These things will have to be tolerated. As suggested before, we believe it will reduce their influence to the minimum if we print in the Standard the very best article obtainable on preparing fowls for exhibition, then the novice may know what is expected of him if he wishes to successfully compete with first-class exhibitors.

In accordance with the suggestion made by educationists in various parts of the province, the premier has decided to take the initiative in calling together the educationists of the province with a view to the organization of a Provincial Educational Association.

It is proposed to have the convention meet on March 29th at Calgary.

The following have been asked by the premier to act as a provisional committee to make arrangements for the first meeting:

A. C. Newcombe, Calgary, president; W. R. Edmonson, first vice-president; W. A. Hamilton, Lethbridge, second vice-president; Prof. Kerr, of University of Alberta; Dr. A. M. Scott of Calgary; L. Ross, chief inspector of schools; Edmonson, W. H. Thompson, principal of Normal School, Calgary.

All teachers in the province will be allowed to attend the convention without loss in salary and without forfeiting by the districts in which they may be employed of the government grant.

The first meeting of the executive was held on Saturday evening at Calgary.

THE CATTLE INDUSTRY IN ALBERTA

The Outlook is Cheerful; there is no Decrease

Last year in regard to live stock shipments was the largest in our history. As the large ranchers go out it seems that the smaller farmers produce an adequate supply of beef cattle in small numbers, better fitted in many ways than was the case with the grass-fed animals.

The out-put has been spread over a greater part of the year, and as time goes on, if we take pains to foster our live stock business this will become still more apparent, with, possibly, better prices prevailing.

In the territory north and northeast of Calgary, served by the Calgary and Edmonton line and the Weleskiwin and Lacombe branches, the figures for 1908 showed an increase over 1897 of 65 per cent on cattle, sheep and hogs respectively.

The following are some of the railway figures:

C. & E. line: Horses, 139 per cent; cattle, 63 per cent; hogs, 15 per cent; Weleskiwin branch: Cattle, 163 per cent; hogs, 139 per cent.

Lacombe branch: Cattle, 42 per cent; hogs, 43 per cent. Sheep, light, decrease.

This portion of Alberta has the largest number of small farms and ranches. It is therefore conclusive proof that the stock industry is not being destroyed by settlement.

Shipments of horses show a satisfactory increase and prices slightly in advance of 1908, and foreign inquiries backing the local demand should tend to a still further rise in values of first class animals.

While shipments of hogs were considerably in excess of 1908, the supply has not nearly reached the demand, notwithstanding higher prices, and more steady markets than have prevailed for years. However, the fact that shipments are now being made from districts where hitherto there have been none, is proof of the extension of mixed farming over new areas.

Sheep

This business must be regarded as unsatisfactory. Shipments show a decrease in mutton wethers of 9 per cent, instead of an increase as should have been the case under normal conditions, nor is there any evidence of intention on the part of flockmasters to extend their operations.

The following figures show the stock movement for the province of Alberta for the year with approximate returns:

Shipments

Twin Cities Poultry and Pet Stock Association

The Twin Cities Poultry and Pet Stock Association held the regular monthly meeting in the Mechanics hall, Edmonton. The meeting was well attended and considerable business was transacted.

Mr. J. C. Longmore reported in regard to the extension of classification at the summer fair, and it has been decided to make a feature of the young chicken classes. The sections for bantams has been extended, also for turkeys, geese and ducks. Some extra sections have been put on for dressed poultry. As these premium lists will be printed early this year, breeders will have a good opportunity of seeing what is required.

Quite a lengthy discussion arose as to the placing of the Premier's Cup for the next winter show and it was decided it should be offered for Orpingtons.

Tea committee on constitution and by-laws reported and a draft was read to the meeting.

Mr. Owens gave notice that at the next regular meeting he would move to repeal the constitution and all previous bylaws in order to adopt a new set.

The auditors reported progress and they were instructed to finish their labor and report at the next meeting. Now that much of the business of the association promises soon to be in order, lectures and instructive demonstrations will be taken up.

The Cochran Advocate says: "Mr. C. W. Fisher left for Edmonton on Tuesday, for the opening of the session of the provincial parliament. The fact that our member is again speaker of the House brings Cochran and district a certain amount of publicity which will help our efforts to advertise the many advantages and opportunities offered by this section of Alberta. Mrs. Fisher will not go north for the present so "Mr. Speaker" will be home for week-ends when possible."

Jones to the position of supervising engineer of railway construction of the lines building and to be built under bond guarantees from the provincial government is one that will afford lively satisfaction to his many friends in the Vermilion district, through which Mr. Jones some years ago located the main line of the C.N.R. In fact St. George's has a packed team from the whole country, including some of the best of Strathcona. It is probable that Deacon will referee the game, while the judge of play will be a St. George's man.

Justice Stuart has given out his judgment in the case Samuel Gower vs. Knute Kolchen et al. This is an interpleader issue. The plaintiff claims goods and chattels under a chattel mortgage from one David Mill Carie which was dated April 22, '09, and is for the sum of $500. The defendants are execution creditors under whose writs the sheriff seized the property covered by the mortgage on May 10, '09. After due consideration of the different points of the case, Judge Stuart gave judgment for the defendants with costs.

WAS RED BIRD MURDERED?

"Did you make any discoveries near the home of the Gladys?"
"Yes, I found a canoe," replied the sergeant. "It was lying bottom up beside a fence near the house. It was a light canoe and when I turned it over I found a dark stain near the bow, which looked to me like human blood, so I cut out a piece of one of the ribs that were stained and took it to the government analyst."

Jos. S. Spencer, a clerk at the Hudson's Bay trading post on Lac La Biche, had a diary that he produced from which he read extracts.
"On August 30," he read, "the boatmen returned."

"Who were some of these boatmen?" inquired his lordship.

"Alex. Glad was one and the dead man was another. Peter went down to meet his brother he said," replied Spencer.

"Two days later, on Sept. 2, I heard that one of the men had been drowned," concluded Spencer.

Two Indian Witnesses.
Theo. Bouche, an Indian trapper, and his son, were the next witnesses. Both told practically the same story. The three men, it appears, had stopped at his home in the evening of the 20th, and while there the two brothers and Red Bird, who are cousins, had quarrelled. Bouche had separated them, and before they left all three appeared to be friendly again. Court then adjourned for the goodnight recess.

W. Gariepy and H. L. Landry, who are defending the prisoners, exhausted all the challenges allowed them by law, before the jury was finally chosen as follows: James McLean, Benjamin Piggott, Wellington A. Rosemary, James Dunn, John Lexton, Andrew W. Wilson.

The case was adjourned until this afternoon.

The contest for the prizes offered by the Capital is beginning to warm up in the city. A large number of young people have allowed their names to go in as candidates and are beginning to work a little. It will be the workers who will eventually capture the highest prizes. While wishing all the candidates success we are free to admit that the person who will get out and rustle deserves to win.

In the Metropolitan Methodist Church the League held a St. Valentine's social last evening. A most enjoyable evening was spent. The programme was short, after which games were indulged in. After refreshments the evening's pleasure was brought to a close. There were about eighty young people present.

On Thursday evening Dr. Broadus will deliver the lecture on "Idealism in the Modern Drama: Phillips, Yeats, Moody," in connection with the Extension lectures of the University.
